I am a leader and member of the Cross Border Orchestra (which consists of 110 young people). Being a part of this huge team requires consistent dedication and commitment; the ability to lead by example and be a role model and mentor younger members and most importantly, be an effective team player. It is essential to be able to liaise with staff, taking instruction and carrying through. We have performed to audiences of up to 8000 people, which is a huge responsibility but one that I relish.
