Work Experience

St. Andrew's N.S., Malahide, Co Dublin

March 2017 – present

- Employed as a permanent primary school teacher with particular responsibility for a range of children on the autism spectrum including Asperger's syndrome.

KPMG, 1 Harbourmaster Place, Dublin 1

June – July 2016

- Worked within a team of KPMG professionals reporting ultimately to Conor O'Brien, Head of Tax & Legal.
- Carried out research in relation to tax solutions, including personal and corporate taxation issues, and succession tax including CAT.
- Conducted cross-border reviews of double taxation treaties in relation to aviation leasing structures for Irish leasing client companies.
- Conducted research and compiled charts and grids in relation to tax residency issues for persons and companies.
- Gained valuable experience working with professional advisors in a client context.
- Worked in teams with hierarchical structures of PQE expertise, learning how these teams work best together and how to interact within them at my level.
- Drafted memos based on the research I conducted, and collated data collected into digestible formats for more senior team members.

Grant Thornton, 24-26 City Quay, Dublin 2.

May 2016

- Worked in a practical, hands-on role within this team.
- Responsible for a large number of assets within a distressed portfolio being managed by GT in receivership. As these were primarily real property assets (residential and commercial) I was required to assess legal ownership from public/searchable sources, verify vacant possession or lease status and generally maintain income through securing rental streams with agents or prepare for sale (including securing and repairing the assets, and liaising with agents to sell). The sales process included instructing agents on valuation, survey, BER requirements and sales commissions.
- Worked within a corporate team structure environment but was given significant autonomy to work within instructed parameters, budgets and client requirements.
- Interaction with a wide variety of external agents and advisors from diverse backgrounds.
- Exercised initiative in difficult situations and was proactive in problem-solving.
