Skills Profile

- I enjoy helping and assisting people of all ages and I'm considered to be an astute listener and critical thinker. Evidence for this is my participation throughout my education ranging from holding posts such as Head boy when I was in school to being class representative in second year of college.
- I am a curious individual, I like to question things around me, and increase my knowledge. Moving out of my comfort zone to live in a new city conveys my motivation to embrace new settings.
- I place a great focus on attention to detail and working while balancing student life has improved my everyday approach to analysing and solving any potential problems.
