To The Recruiters,

I am an academically competent and multilingual student with experience working in courts, law firms, and corporations with a working knowledge of information technology, intellectual property rights, and international law. With utmost enthusiasm, I would like to express my interest in The Byrne Wallace Traineeship Programme 2023. I'm currently pursuing my LLM in IPR & IT from Trinity College Dublin.

As of till date, I could immediately bring the following characteristics to the table:

Eloquence: As a law student, I see the value of broad articulation. This is most evident in my involvement in numerous publications, Moot Courts and debate competitions. After acquiring pertinent knowledge during my under graduation, I have written papers on the relationship between Patents and the Pharmaceutical Industry as well as Artificial Intelligence and Competition Law, which were published in Manupatra, one of India's largest legal websites. I was awarded by Indian Ministry of Parliamentary Affairs the best speaker award at the 49th National Youth Parliament Competition for speaking on modern challenges related to Cybercrime against women.

Self-Motivation: As a persistently driven individual seeking worldwide experience, I have had the pleasure to interact with International Organizations to improve my present competence and further strengthen my interpersonal skills. I joined an international organization called Reimagining Society, where I was an active member of the team, serving as a representative of my country and assisting with several on-the-ground projects, including a media literacy programme in partnership with CNN Philippines.

Zeal to learn: I impelled myself to undergo advanced certification in the fields of Copyright and AI. I am also an author at the Woke Lawyer; an initiative to bring lawyers all across the globe to share their legal knowledge on one platform. I'm currently working with IGG Singapore as a writer to launch my own video game.

Empathy: I yearn to give back to the society and thus have volunteered to for a relief for acid attack victims, education drive of India and a food for street children projects that have made me considerate and empathetic towards everyone around me.

While my resume provides a history of my past experiences, there is considerably more, and I hope to be a perfect fit for your company so that I can bring success to us both.

Sincerely
