Ms. Emily Murray
ByrneWallace
88 Harcourt Street
Dublin 2

Dear Ms. Murray:

I wish to apply to ByrneWallace's Trainee Solicitor Programme.

After speaking with one of your solicitors, I became interested in applying for a position as a Trainee Solicitor in ByrneWallace. The opportunity to work in a full-service firm with a large international network aligns with my intention to become a well-rounded solicitor, who can draw on a variety of expertise in order to better serve the client. I was particularly drawn to ByrneWallace's commitment to the professional and personal development of their solicitors. I am eager to work in a firm that would allow me to gain a broad base of knowledge while working closely with lawyers of all levels in a supportive and collegial environment.

I believe I would be an excellent addition to the ByrneWallace team as my work and university experience demonstrate my motivation, strong work ethos, and my commitment to both personal and professional development. Throughout my degree I successfully balanced my studies with my work commitments in Woodies DIY, while also making time for extracurricular activities, such as the CÉIM student mentoring programme. CÉIM was a fantastic opportunity to work with fellow BA Law students to foster a friendly and fun, yet productive environment for first-year students. At the same time, CÉIM allowed me to develop my leadership skills and communications skills by leading study sessions with large groups of first-year students. Our weekly debrief and planning meetings also encouraged my fellow mentors and I to engage in a process of self-reflection with a view to always improving our sessions and our own personal skill set.

I firmly believe a career with ByrneWallace would be a thoroughly rewarding one and would represent an excellent opportunity for me to continue in my path of professional development and upskill. I am fully available for interviews and I hope to hear from you soon.

Yours sincerely,

Eimear Spain
