Dear Sirs

I refer to the above matter.

I wish to apply for the role of trainee solicitor with your firm.

I have been working in legal executive and personal assistant roles for almost two years in the area of residential and commercial real estate, as well as assisting in litigation and debt collection matters. I recently sat four FE1s.

I am fluent in French and have advanced competency in Italian.

I am passionate about law and am interested in a broad range of areas including litigation, residential and commercial real estate, banking and taxation.

I would love the opportunity to interview with your firm, which is renowned both internationally and nationwide.

Please find enclosed herewith my character reference from Professor Edward Arnold of Trinity College Dublin.

Kind regards

Hannah Vero

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN: REFERENCE

As one of my former students in the French Department at TCD, I have known Hannah Vero since 2009 when she arrived in Trinity. Hannah was in the top 5% of her promotion and always showed herself to be highly motivated and committed to her studies. She made relevant and insightful contributions in both French and English to seminars and lectures, and was a passionate and engaged scholar.

Hannah has a feeling for interdisciplinary studies and a broad intellectual appetite. She has a flair for constructing coherent and structured working hypotheses, and works well and effectively alone and under pressure.

She has an excellent grasp of two European languages (French and Italian) and can function remarkably well in different cultural contexts.

I would unreservedly recommend her application.
