Dear Sir/Madam,

I am interested in applying for the Byrne Wallace traineeship programme. I believe my ambition and skills would make me an ideal candidate for this programme.

I began my studies of law in 2015 in Maynooth University in a Bachelor of Law and Business degree which I later changed into, after first year, to a Bachelor of Laws (LLB) degree. I am currently in my fourth and final year and thoroughly enjoying learning about law. Although I have remained at a 2:2 average for the last three years my grades have improved I am one hundred percent confident that I will graduate with a 2:1 degree next year. I am extremely enthusiastic about practising within a law firm in the future and this traineeship would be the best start to my career. I would thrive in the busy environment of this outstanding law firm that is so well recognised.

I believe that I would be an asset to your programme as I am a fast learner and would be eager to be involved in presented tasks. I have been complimented on my initiative in the past and I believe that this is a key trait to have in any job but especially in a traineeship. I am a big team player and I think a skill like this is crucial to work in this firm. I have a lot of experience working in teams and building relationships and I believe that this is vital within a firm and also when dealing with clients.

The reputation that Byrne Wallace has is that of no other. I would love the opportunity to build a career in this outstanding law firm. I am also an American citizen and would love the opportunity to work in the Byrne Wallace office in New York.

I want to be based in the city where it's all happening to build my career and start my working life, so this firm is nothing short of perfect for me. I would love to work with and learn from the best.

I hope to have the opportunity to speak with you further.

Yours Faithfully,

Karen Creamer
