Dear Sir/Madam,

I hope this letter finds you well. My name is Kieran McNulty and I am a final-year student in Trinity College Dublin. I study Law (L.L.B) and am hoping to graduate with a 2:1 degree. I am applying for the Byrne Wallace traineeship programme.

I am interested in the work you do, particularly in childcare law. I am keen to learn more about arbitration also. I am very impressed that you support Focus Ireland and I want to work for a company which supports those less fortunate.

I am a diligent, enthusiastic and bright worker. I have gained extensive experience from my years in university which will assist me in my work as a trainee. First and foremost, I spent two years on the Dublin University Law Society committee, first as the second year representative and then I served as the Secretary of the Committee. During my tenure, I organised the visits of guests such as Lord Neuberger, Director of the UN World Food Programme Ms Ertharin Cousin, Commander Chris Hadfield and activist Ory Okolloh. I secured the future visits of Amal Alamuddin and Jean-Claude Juncker. I am active in the Students' Union in Trinity, working as the Citizenship Officer. I was previously the chair of the SU Council and this year I have organised the first political party leader's debate to have occurred in years in Ireland, which will take place in November. I served on the board of one of the largest youth NGOs in Europe and organised two conferences for the same organisation, the European Youth Parliament.

I am an honest person and I must be honest in applying to work at your company. Since 2012, I have suffered from an acute anxiety disorder, which is now being treated but did adversely affect my academic studies. I am now very much coping with the disorder and my third year results prove that I am capable of achieving. I expect to perform much better this year also now that I am coping with my situation.

In conclusion, I do believe that I am an adept candidate to become a trainee in Byrne Wallace. I am prepared to work hard and to improve myself. I would very much appreciate an opportunity to show you what I can do.

Warm regards,

Kieran McNulty.
