ByrneWallace
Dublin, Ireland

To the Graduate Recruitment Head at ByrneWallace,

I am writing to apply for the position of Trainee Solicitor at ByrneWallace. I am hoping to begin working in this role in 2025. I have currently passed one FE-1 (criminal law) and I will be sitting for four more subjects (equity, contract, property, and constitutional) this upcoming October.

For this role, I believe I would be an excellent asset to your team. My continued desire to learn and advance my knowledge, demonstrated in my CV through my higher education studies, will ensure that I and ByrneWallace will only continue to grow as an asset throughout my career as a solicitor.

My current position as Graduate Officer in the UCD Students' Union, for which I was elected after running a campaign, demonstrates my tenacity to achieve my desired results. In my future career, this will be an important skill as it will allow me to pursue the most suitable and beneficial outcomes for my clients. For ByrneWallace, client happiness is paramount for its success and will only benefit from my determination and competence.

I am including a copy of my CV in the email for your convenience. I am accessible by email and phone. I look forward to speaking with you in the near future and hopefully securing a spot in your firm to begin my career.

Kind regards,

Kylie McCardel
