Re: Application for Graduate Trainee Position

Dear Sir/Madam,

I am writing to express my interest in your Graduate Traineeship programme, an opportunity which I believe matches well with the experience I have. I found the opening through my own research as a final year law student in Trinity College Dublin considering life after graduation, which seems like an ideal fit.

The identity of ByrneWallace as a progressive law firm that embraces technology is what drives me most to the firm. As you will be able to see from my CV, my experience working as an intern for Community Law & Mediation was done remotely and very seriously highlighted to me the importance of technology in the legal profession. Working in this firm would be of strong value to start my legal career, which will only increase as time goes on.

I am committed to providing innovative solutions to complex legal issues and appreciate the challenge that areas like, for example, corporate law or financial law involve. I believe that not only will a traineeship with you help my professional and personal development, but that I could make a meaningful contribution to the firm as well. The solid legal education I have received combined with my unique skills and experience sets me apart from other applicants. I look forward to explaining these strengths further if given the chance at interview.

Thank you in advance for your consideration and I look forward to hearing from you.

Yours faithfully,
