Re: Trainee Solicitor Programme

To whom it may concern,

I am writing to you to apply for your solicitor traineeship programme as I feel it would suit my skills and personality best. As one of Ireland's top firms and known for its excellence in traineeship programmes ByrneWallace has always been a dream of mine.

As my curriculum vitae states I have worked for the HSE for almost five years, during my investigation of your company I found some trainees began their trainee programme in the Health Services Department, I could not put into words the excitement and interest I have in this field and how eager I would be to extend my knowledge on the law and practice in this area and I am fully aware that ByrneWallace is ranked as a top tier firm for Healthcare Law by Legal 500.

Although my main interests lie with Healthcare Law I also have an immense interest in Banking and Finance Law, Tax Law, Family Law and Commercial Contracts Law. I feel with the excellent rotation system offered at ByrneWallace I will be able to dig deep into some of these to expand my skills and mould me into the excellent lawyer I hope to be.

I have strong communication, problem solving and time management skills which I have gained from working with clients through my health care job. Through my career as a carer I have been dealing with family meetings of our clients which has given me the skills needed to work with future clients. I can work well under pressure and I am well capable of thinking on my feet.

I appreciate you taking the time to read my application and I look forward to hearing from you.

Kind regards,

Nikita Kirby
