Re: Trainee Position

Dear Byrne Wallace,

I am writing to express my interest in a trainee position at your firm. This position would fit my experience and education greatly, helping me progress in my law career. The main reason I am applying for the position is because I believe I am what you are seeking from a trainee, I would make a good addition to your team on this basis.

I have completed all 8 FE1 examinations. I aim to attend Blackhall in September 2021. I currently hold a 2.1h (65 PPA) degree in LL.B. (Hons) in Irish Law, Certificate in Legal Studies, and a B.A. in Journalism.

I have consistently put myself out there as much as possible and engaged in any opportunity that is presented to me. This is shown in my voluntary nature with the Irish Innocence Project and work across waters in London. I have an ambitious and driven personality. I have worked in hands-on environments previously and embrace challenges with great enthusiasm. I strive to perfect my studies where possible, I have attempted to fine-tune my legal research skills many times during my career to ensure high grades throughout my education. I work well in a team and have always been keen to stand up first in situations where it is needed. Skills I have gained from past experiences include:

- Precision while working with deadlines.
- Extensive legal research capabilities.
- Clear communication.
- Consistent work-rate.
- Excellent technological skills.

Attached is my CV which details my experience and academic background. For further discussion, contact the number or e-mail above.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

Robert Murphy
