To whom it may concern,

I am writing to apply to the trainee solicitor programme at Byrne Wallace as advertised on your website. I have recently achieved a first class honours law degree from Trinity College Dublin and am eager to put this degree to use in the legal sector. I am in the process of studying for my FE1 exams and hope to have them completed by October 2017.

I am a good candidate for the traineeship role due to my strong academic record as well as my previous legal experience. I have relevant experience in the field, having worked as a judicial assistant for judges in both the Superior and Federal District Courts in Los Angeles. These roles involved a significant amount of legal research and the preparation and review of various legal documents.

I am interested in Byrne Wallace because of the company's strong presence in the Irish legal sector, the strength of your traineeship programme and the opportunity for career advancement within the firm.

Training in Byrne Wallace's various practice areas will enable me to gain valuable experience working with motivated legal experts as part of a major corporate law firm. I am confident that I could make positive contributions to the work of your firm while at the same time strengthening the practical skills I will need to forge a career in corporate law.

I hope to have the opportunity to interview with you about a traineeship position with Byrne Wallace and am available to interview at any time. I look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,

Sinead Mooney
