Dear Sir/Madam,

I am writing to express my strong interest in your internship program. As a graduate in the BA Economics, Politics, and Law program at Dublin City University (DCU) I am currently studying LLM in policing, crime, and security, which has allowed me to analyse things in detail. I believe my diverse background and unique perspective would make a valuable contribution to your firm's community.

My passion for law lies in its continuous evolution to reflect societal and cultural changes, as well as international government regulations and immigration acts. I'm particularly intrigued by the intersection of inclusivity in law and government bodies, and I aspire to understand and contribute to these future developments.

What brought me to the attention of your firm was your outstanding cooperation with the commercial team when clients have matters of acquisition and the strong relationship between a solicitor and client

What sets me apart is that I am the first generation in my family to pursue a career in law, and I aim to set an example for women in the field. I'm also currently on work experience with a barrister, who has given me an insight into how the law applies in court. This journey represents not just my ambition but also the potential to inspire others, both within my family and among women, to explore the legal profession. It underscores the transformative power of education and determination.

My undergraduate degree in Economics, Politics, and Law equips me with a sharp analytical and financial mindset, which complements my ability to apply larger financial concepts to specific areas of law. During my studies, I also discovered the importance of practicality and pragmatism in politics, which has instilled in me a strong problem-solving skill set, giving me confidence in pursuing a career at your law firm.

I plan to complete my FE1 exams in 2025 to prepare for your graduate traineeship in 2026. I intend to undertake a FE1 prep course to assist with the exams and access a program to complete my exams in three sittings.

As a first-generation law enthusiast, I am eager to gain insight into this profession and expand my legal expertise through this internship program

Thank you for considering my application. If you require further details or references, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Kind regards,
Tara Swift
